Stocks edge down, led by basic resources; telecoms outperforms

The VN-Index opened lower on Monday and stayed in negative territory, closing down 0.2% at 1,272.02. Total trading value slumped 26% from last week on the first day of a shortened holiday week (markets will be closed on Wednesday for the New Year holiday) to VND10.0tn (USD393.6mn). The HNX-Index followed a similar trend to close down 0.4% at 228.14.

Almost all sectors were in the red today. Sectors that fell included Banks (-0.1%), Utilities (-0.3%), Basic Resources (-1.2%), Construction & Materials (-0.4%), Retail (-0.3%), Financial Services (-0.4%), and Chemicals (-0.5%). Sectors that rose included Food & Beverages (+2.2%), Telecommunications (+1.6%), Industrial Goods & Services (+0.7%), and Technology (+0.6%).

TTN (+5.0%), a telecom hardware and software services provider, jumped likely due to recent approval by its BoD to sign and implement contracts with large organizations such as Becamex Construction & Civil Engineering (BCE), Idico (IDC), and VNPT. These partnerships, involving telecommunications and infrastructure services, are expected to enhance TTN's growth potential and contribution to the telecom sector. TTN's established expertise in telecommunications and system integration positions it well to leverage these opportunities for future revenue growth and industry impact.

SGT (+4.0%), a telecom services provider, continued its momentum by hitting its ceiling price today, which can be attributed to sustained positive market sentiment fueled by news on December 17 that the company has secured a credit facility of up to VND1.63tn (64.9mn) from VPBank to invest in the second phase of the Dai Dong – Hoan Son industrial park project in Bac Ninh, which spans 95.8 h.a. The project, with cleared land ready for tenant handover and profit accounting, represents a significant growth opportunity, supported by Saigontel's use of project-related assets as collateral. This strategic financing positions the company to capitalize on high demand for industrial park infrastructure with a fully leased-out initial phase.

Foreign investors net bought VND357.2bn (USD14.0mn) today. Selling momentum focused on TCB (VND41.2bn, USD1.6mn), NLG (VND33.5bn, USD1.3mn), VRE (VND28.3bn, USD1.1mn) and MWG (VND28.2bn, USD1.1mn). In contrast, they bought STB (VND154.8bn, USD6.0mn), CTG (VND86.9bn, USD3.4mn), PDR (VND74.3bn, USD2.9mn), HDB (VND63.9bn, USD3.5mn), and SSI (VND55.1bn, USD2.1mn).

Top gainers today include HDB (+6.8%), LPB (+1.7%), and FPT (0.6%). In contrast, the top laggards were BID (-2.3%), TCB (-0.8%), and MBB (-0.2%).

USD/VND outlook: Navigating uncertainty

Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Bui Thanh Son's projection last week of USD16bn in remittances for 2024, coupled with 7.1% YoY growth in implemented FDI and a USD24.3bn trade surplus as of November, should bode well for a more stable foreign exchange market toward year-end.

Investors are mulling various scenarios for FX in 2025. We believe the DXY is overvalued at its current level of 108, but protectionist trade policies and tax cuts by the incoming Trump administration could certainly push it higher. This would put significant pressure on the USD/VND exchange rate as well. To mitigate this risk, we anticipate the SBV will move its intervention band to ~VND26,000/USD - VND26,200/USD in 2025, facilitated by easing inflationary pressure and a manageable public debt profile.

In addition, foreign inflows are expected to continue to provide some support for the VND in 2025. Remittances are projected to remain robust, while the trade surplus is anticipated to continue rising, at least in 1H25, before the full impact of the new US administration's policies is realized. While we expect FDI inflows to rise over the medium to long term, driven by factors such as global tech diversification, strategic diplomatic initiatives, abundant rare earth reserves, and a favorable demographic profile, near-term investor sentiment may be cautious pending President-elect Trump's policy announcements. Overall, while external forces may impact the VND rate in 2025, the SBV has cards it can play to mitigate that impact.

BSR - Secures approval for charter capital boost to VND50tn

On December 24, 2024, the plan to raise Binh Son Refining and Petrochemical Company's (BSR) charter capital from VND31tn (USD1.2bn) to VND50tn (USD1.9bn) was approved by PVN and is now awaiting submission to authorities for final approval, expected before 1Q25. The capital increase will be executed through bonus share issuance and stock dividend payments, utilizing funds from the Development Investment Fund and retained earnings, with a total ratio of 61.5%.

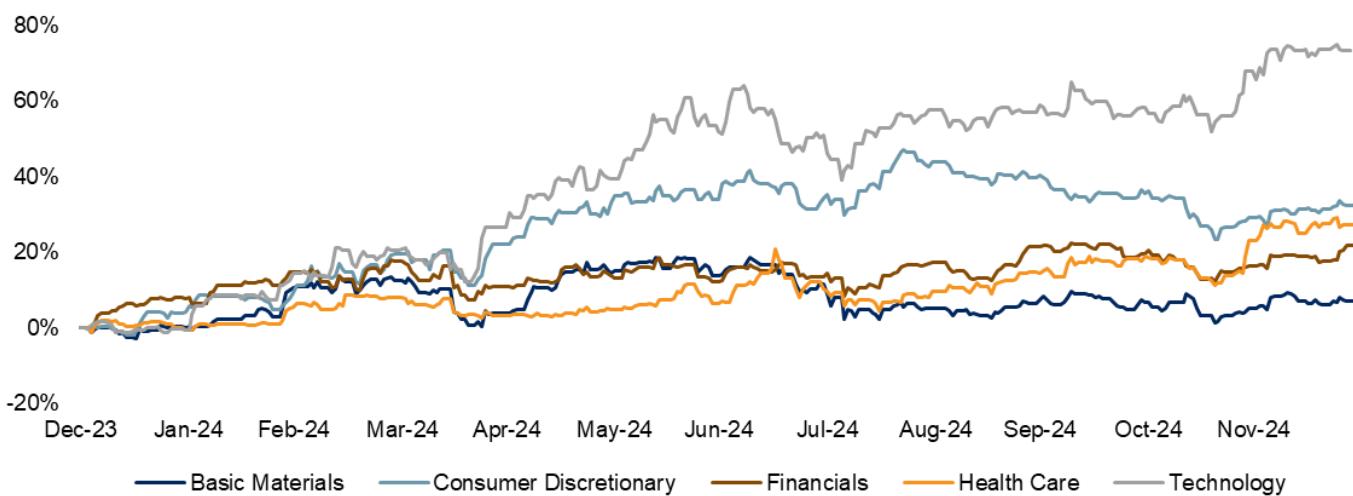

This initiative aims to support the upgrade and expansion of the Dung Quat refinery, focusing on enhancing processing capacity, reducing costs, and producing Euro V-standard fuels. Additionally, BSR is preparing for a listing on HoSE, targeted for early 2025, as part of its long-term growth strategy.
