Market Commentary

Stocks slide, led by banks

The VN-Index opened lower on Tuesday and continued downward for the entire session, closing down 0.5% at 1,229.1, wiping out the previous day's gains. Total trading value dropped by 23% to VND7.1tn (USD279.7mn). Similarly, the HNX-Index also closed down 0.6% at 218.3.

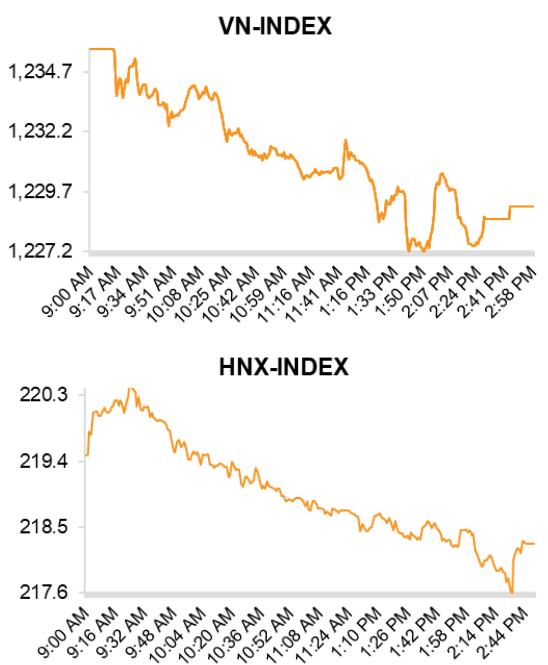

Most sectors slumped today, led by Banks (-0.7%), Real estate (-0.5%), Food & Beverage (-1.0%) and Industrial Goods & Services (-1.3%). In contrast, sectors that gained today included only Oil & Gas (+1.2%), Insurance (+0.9%) and Retail (+0.1%).

KBC (+2.5%) rose today on news that the investment plan for the TD3 project was approved by the Government (see our Analyst Note).

MFS (+14.9%) hit its ceiling price today, extending its rally from the previous session following positive news about MobiFone over the weekend. According to the Government Steering Committee's report on restructuring and streamlining administrative organizations, the Ministry of Home Affairs has proposed transferring MobiFone Telecommunications Corporation to the Ministry of Public Security for management. Previously, MobiFone was under the State Capital Management Committee's supervision. The transfer to the Ministry of Public Security is expected to bring exclusive advantages to MobiFone, granting it stronger government support for key projects, particularly those involving national security and strategic telecommunications infrastructure. Additionally, MobiFone is likely to receive priority access to national initiatives related to information technology, citizen database systems, and digitalization solutions for public security and administrative sectors.

Foreign investors net sold today (VND629bn, USD24.8mn). Selling momentum focused on FPT (VND189bn, USD7.5mn), VPB (VND59.2bn, USD2.3mn), and MSN (VND42.8bn, USD1.7mn). In contrast, their buying activities focused on VGC (VND29.1bn, USD1.2mn) and FRT (VND18.5bn, USD730,000).

Top gainers today included GAS (+0.8%), PLX (+2.2%), BVH (+2.6%), and VGC (+2.5%). Top laggards included CTG (-2.0%), FPT (-1.7%), and BID (-0.8%).

Macro notes

Gradual US tariffs: Tightrope for the Fed. Inflation report due out tomorrow

Perhaps no policy issue has garnered more attention than US President-elect Trump's tariff agenda. Trump's incoming economic staff members are reportedly advocating for a gradual tariff implementation tactic. This "step-up" approach, characterized by incremental increases on a monthly basis, is believed to enhance negotiation leverage while mitigating the potential for a sudden surge in inflationary pressure.

While the rolling tariff proposal remains under preliminary consideration, concerns have risen regarding its potential to complicate the Fed's monetary policy decisions. UBS, in its latest analysis, highlights the distinction between a one-time tariff shock and a series of rolling tariffs. While a one-time tariff increase primarily results in a level shift in prices, with minimal impact on inflation expectations if the magnitude is not substantial, a series of rolling tariffs, akin to repeated supply shocks, could exacerbate inflationary pressures. This would make it significantly more challenging for the Fed to accurately assess the inflation outlook and determine the appropriate course of action. As such, UBS anticipates that the Fed will maintain a cautious stance, refraining from rate cuts until at least June 2025. This view aligns with a growing consensus among sell-side institutions, including BofA, BNP Paribas, and Deutsche Bank, who have also recently forecast no rate cuts this year.

Investor attention is currently focused on the December CPI report tomorrow, with consensus projecting headline CPI to accelerate to 2.9% YoY from 2.7% in November. Currently, the odds of a 25-bp cut at the January meeting is at a mere 2.7%. Overall, given the persistent strength in the labor market and the potential for inflationary pressure to remain elevated, not to mention the potential for rolling tariffs, we believe the Fed is likely to adopt a highly cautious and hawkish stance at the upcoming meeting in two weeks time.

Analyst Note*DPM approves investment policy for KBC project

On January 14, 2025, Deputy Prime Minister Tran Hong Ha signed Decision No. 86/QĐ-TTg, approving the investment plan for the construction and business project of the Trang Due 3 IP (TD3) infrastructure project in Hai Phong city. The decision clearly states the approval of the investment plan and designates Saigon – Hao Phong Industrial Park Corporation (a subsidiary of KBC) as the project investor. The project covers an area of 652.73 hectares and will be implemented in the communes of Truong Tho, Truong Thanh, An Tieng, and Bat Trang in An Lao district, Hai Phong city, with a total investment of VND8.1tn (USD320mn).

Technically, this does not alter our expectation for TD3 to commence leasing in the second half of 2025. However, it presents a potential upside to our target price on KBC as we had applied a 20% discount RNAV to account for any further delays in the legal progress of TD3 and Trang Cat. We will provide further updates in the upcoming period.
